Good morning Alissa,

Thank you for your email. Unfortunately, we have been out of the office for most of the month due to business travel and our annual conference. I am just getting a chance to respond to your most recent communication. I am sorry to hear that this matter has been forwarded to your corporate office. You and I scheduled a couple of meeting to discuss the details and you were unable to participate in either. Our office has not yet received the below referenced letter. Below please find our current address. If you or whomever will be reaching out would like to speak by phone, please let me know available times.

Thank you,

Good afternoon Ms. Pullen,

I wanted to follow up with you. I tried giving you a call again this afternoon, but was unsuccessful in reaching you. Please advise when would be a good time to connect regarding the commission amount that was sent to your organization in error.

Thank you,
Alissa

Good morning,

I appreciate you getting back to me. Yes, according to our contract, Wilma McKay was to receive the commissions for this group, not FACA. I do apologize for this confusion. It appears that when preparing the commissions check, FACA was as the payee. I have attached a copy of the agreement with the commissions portion highlighted. Also, I have attached a copy of the check that was mailed. Please review the information and let me know your thoughts.

Thank you

Good morning Whitney,

Thank you for reaching out. Kameron explained to me that a check was provided to FACA as a rebate/refund for conference fees that according to Omni should be paid to Wilma McKay. First, is that correct? Second, could you please provide me a more detailed summary of the issue including the full contract with the portion in question highlighted?

Hello Whitney,

I spoke with Mrs. Pullen today regarding the error and she should be reaching out to you soon.

I'm cc'ing her in this email as well.
